EDUCATION WEEK ATTRACTS GREAT LOCAL INTEREST

Hickman Plans Program
For All Ada Schools
from Dec. 4 to 10.

GROUPS WILL VISIT

Co-operation of Schools and Public is the Chief Objective.

Closer relationship and understanding between schools, civic organizations of the city, and the public in general will be one of the things sought in carrying out American Education week here beginning Sunday and continuing until December 10, City Superintendent J. E. Hickman announced Wednesday morning.

In advancing this program, city school officials will be assisted by Norman Howard post of the American legion, which, its officers said, would lend assistance in any way possible.

Definite announcement as to the program that will be carried out in the county schools has not been made public by A. Floyd, county superintendent, but it is expected that they too will be included in the movement.

Beginning Sunday, when all pastors of the city have been asked to stress subjects relative to education and democracy, a full week of activity will be carried out. Following is the program that was outlined Tuesday night at a meeting with City Superintendent Hickman of all city school principals:

- Program Complete.
1. Sunday, December 4—Pastors of city present some phase of "Education and Democracy."
 2. Regular schedule of work in all schools, including:
 - (a) Monday—Formal Reville 8:30 a. m.
 - (b) Tuesday-Friday—Call to Colors, 8:30 a. m.
 3. Visitation:
 - (a) Monday—Committee from Chamber of Commerce.
 - (b) Tuesday—Committee from Lions Club.
 - (c) Wednesday—Committee from Ladies' Auxiliary, C. of C.
 - (d) Thursday—Committee from American Legion.
 - (e) Friday—Ministerial Alliance.
 4. Parent-Teachers Organizations:
 - (a) Committee on visitation for each day of week.
 - (b) Report of work done and work projected for year.
 5. Report for publication by official committees.
 6. Patriotic songs, state and national history stories according to usual schedule.
 7. Talks to pupils by visiting Legion members and others.

Tentative arrangements for the week call for one of the most comprehensive Americanizing attempts that has ever been made in city schools. After committees from the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, Ministerial alliance, American Legion, and ladies' auxiliaries of various organizations have visited the school, spoken to pupils, and observed work that is being done, they will report back to their various clubs. This will complete a chain of co-operation which is intended to cement local interests more closely.

Patrons Called Upon.
The Patrons Clubs of all city schools probably will be big factors in making American Education Week here a success.

Every business man in Ada also will be given a chance to boost the movement with no additional expense and little extra trouble to each, according to plans. All will be asked to include in their advertising some mention of the movement by references to education as the "hope of democracy." "The foundation of every state is the education of its youth" is a slogan that will be carried as far before the public here next week as possible.

SIX NEW CASES FILED FOR DISTRICT COURT

In the district court, business showed a perceptible increase yesterday when an unusual record of six suits were filed. They are P. A. Ray vs. Emily Williams, nee Land, et al, quit title; E. B. Crawford vs. William West, appeal from justice of the peace court; International Shoe company, Peters branch, a corporation, vs. A. G. Austelle, recovery of debt; D. C. Abney et al. vs. Elmer W. Good, et al., foreclosure of mortgage; J. W. Jenkins and Son Music company vs. L. T. Walters, abstract of judgment; Great Western Paint Manufacturing company, a corporation, vs. M. C. Derrick and George Goddard, abstract of judgment.

In times of peace, be peaceful.

NOTED SPEAKERS TO ADDRESS DRYS AT NATIONAL CONVENTION

Left to right, above: Roy A. Haynes and W. J. Bryan. Below: Wayne B. Wheeler, Harry Daugherty and A. J. Volstead.

New emphasis upon enforcement of prohibition with particular reference to country wide co-operation of state officers with federal officials will be laid at the national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America in Washington, Dec. 6, 7 and 8. Among the noted speakers at the convention will be Attorney General Daugherty, Federal Prohibition Commissioner Roy A. Haynes, W. J. Bryan, Wayne B. Wheeler and A. J. Volstead, author of the Volstead act.

'PAY YOUR BILLS' SLOGAN THIS WEEK

RETAIL CREDIT MEN'S ANNUAL CAMPAIGN BEGINS MONDAY.
LIVELY INTEREST.

The retail credit men's annual "Pay Up Campaign" drive starts tomorrow and the campaign will continue until Dec. 10. The manager of the campaign and several credit men at the larger stores say they consider the education of the buying public to the value of a good credit of a great deal more value than the collection of any accounts now standing on their books.

It was also learned that considering the general strain on credits which exists over the country, Ada merchants are fortunate in that collections seem in most cases to be up to the average.

"We attribute this condition," stated J. E. Williams, credit manager of the credit men's organization, "to the fact that the credit men are getting more careful about whom they grant credit to. In the past any one who had a fair appearance and a residence address in the city could go into a store and open an account, but during the past three years the public has been taught the value of a credit account, and the kicks on filling out the application for credit blank and answering a long list of questions as well as giving references, are now few and far between."

There was a time when the credit men considered turning the "Pay Up" campaign over to a regular advertising agency, but after due consideration it was decided not to stage a "fancy" campaign, but to plan and operate the campaign through their own office with the co-operation of the press and various civic clubs, as well as the churches and schools, to put the message straight up to the people in plain English.

New England Thaws As Cold Lifts Its Sieges This Week

BOSTON, Nov. 30.—Under the first sunshine in four days, New England began today to thaw out from the ice burden left by successive storms.

The shedding process laid bare damage running into millions of dollars. Fallen trees and poles have broken electric light, telephone, telegraph and street railway wires. Public services have been damaged to an extent seldom supposed. Railroads also suffered.

Complete electrification of our railroads would enable them to haul 20 per cent greater loads without increasing operating expenses.

COMMITTEES PICKED FOR BOOSTING MOVE

Important committees in connection with the Chamber of Commerce Reorganization movement were announced this morning. These are:

Committee on Membership Prospect List: J. E. Hickman, chairman, Hugh Bennett, Orel Busby, J. U. Criswell, Wilbur Lee, M. O. Matthews, W. G. Moser S. P. Penrose, Jess Warren.

Committee on Membership Quotas: J. A. Smith, chairman, W. E. Harvey, M. F. Manville, W. M. Pegg, R. W. Simpson.

Committee on Civic Dinner: A. Linscheid, chairman, H. F. Felix, Mrs. Tom Hope, Dr. Sam McKeel, Mrs. Byron Norrell, H. Claude Pitt, Frank Yeagrain.

The Listing Committee and the Committee on Civic Dinner will meet at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow evening at 7:30. The Quota committee will meet early next week.

The Ministers Committee on Civic Sunday was to meet this afternoon at 1:30.

Must be Examined.
It is imperative that every man who was recruited in the new headquarters company, artillery section, be examined at once, according to an order given out today by Lieut. Roy Adair. Those who have not been examined are requested to report to Mr. McKeel, in the Shaw building. As soon as the examinations are completed, the company will be mustered in.

WAGONER—After three years, Floyd Le Master of this city has received his commission as sergeant major in the regular army from the war department. He lost the commission from his pocket just before being sent to Coblenz, Germany, while in France in 1918.

AMERICAN PLAN DEBATED TODAY BY ALL GROUPS

Sub-Committee of Naval Experts Adjourns To Assemble Later.

MAY MEET THURSDAY

Fundamental Question of Fleet Ratio Is Yet in Balances.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The "big three" sub-committee of naval experts had concluded today consideration of facts and figures involved in the American 5-5-3 ratio proposal and will refer the question back to the full committee of experts for further action. No vote was taken in the sub-committee meeting and while the Japanese experts are understood to continue their views that Japan is entitled to a higher fleet ratio, there was said to have been no disagreement as to the figures involved.

It was pointed out that the experts were limited strictly to consideration of technical aspects of the American proposal and that they had no function as to the policies which are renewed for action by conference delegates themselves. The action of the sub-committee today, however, represents substantially continued disagreement between American and Japanese experts as to the proper place of Japan in the limitation ratio proposal.

Expect Results Today.

It has been stated the actual decision of the conference on the fleet ratio question which is the basis of the whole American proposal probably would be reached through informal discussion between the individual delegates. Secretary Hughes is expected to announce later today that the naval experts had completed their work so far as the "five-five-three ratio" was concerned, and possibly to make public some of the figures involved as to the exact naval strength of Japan and the United States.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Details of the American plan for limitation of naval armaments were discussed today at a brief meeting of the sub-committee of naval experts of Great Britain, United States and Japan. The session was adjourned shortly after 11 o'clock and it then was said there would be no other meeting of the sub-committee today and that it had not determined whether discussion would be resumed tomorrow.

There also was no indication that the full committee of naval experts, including officers of the French and Italian navies, had been called. It is generally expected that when experts of the three powers reach a point where they cannot proceed until the conference has decided on fundamental questions of fleet ratio as between the United States and Japan, that the full naval experts committee will be assembled and will then make its report to the naval committee of the conference.

Today Was Important.
In American circles there had appeared to be a feeling that today might bring the discussion of the naval armament question to a head so far as the experts were concerned. There was no indication that such a stage had been reached, however, when the sub-committee adjourned.

Optimism was apparent among the members of the British delegation, a spokesman for which reported to the head of the single committee of experts that he believed that some announcement along the lines of naval armaments might be expected next week, probably before conference is in plenary session Wednesday or Thursday.

Vigilance Reduces Tendency of Check Artists To Thrive

Hot check activities, although showing no startling increase here, are held down only by the vigilance of merchants and others, according to an opinion held by local justices of the peace. Several attempts to defraud by using worthless paper have been reported from individuals whom local judges are confident would never have turned to such practices but for the fact that they were forced to it by financial extortions.

Although they are unwilling to believe that times are actually depressing, justices here admit that unemployment has had its natural effect on some forms of crime. Vagrancy has shown some increase, police and justice court dockets show, but officers have been vigilant not to allow any grass to grow under the feet of transient hot check artists who might chance to visit here.

ELEVENTH WIFE OF FRENCH BLUEBEARD LOYAL AT HIS TRIAL FOR SLAYING TEN

Henri Landru and the wife who is standing by him at his trial, photographed in the courtroom.

While the state is producing charred bits of bones and flesh and other evidence to prove that Henri Landru, "the Bluebeard of Gambais," killed ten of his wives and the son of one of them, his eleventh wife is remaining loyally by his side at the trial. She testified in his defence early in the trial.

VERSAILLES, Nov. 30.—A verdict in the case of Henry Landru, charged with the murder of 10 women and the son of one of them, is expected to be reached late tonight. M. Moro-Gilleri, chief counsel for the "Bluebeard of Gambais," said he expected to complete his address to the jury by five o'clock this afternoon.

The only possible delay might be caused by Landru himself, exercising his right to address the jury. But he was reticent today, refusing to tell even his own counsel whether he intended to speak.

CHANGE OF VENUE ASKED BY RODDIE

County Attorney Will Try To Open Murder Trial
On Schedule.

Notice was served this morning on County Attorney Wayne Wadlington by attorneys for the defense that a change of venue would be asked for Reuben M. Roddie, local attorney, when he goes on trial for the second time in district court here Monday morning charged with the murder of Percy Barton, a soldier, several years ago.

Wadlington said he would fight the petition which, if granted, would operate for a further continuance of the trial. The defense's action will be heard early Monday by Judge Edward B. Oldfield, Oklahoma City, who has been assigned to preside over the trial. Pending the time when a ruling on a change of venue their preparation for what promises to be a spectacular legal battle that may wage for a full week.

Roddie will be represented in his second trial by Robert Wimbush, B. C. King, King & Crawford, all of Ada, Ben Williams, Norman, and J. B. Dudley, Oklahoma City. The prosecution will be led by County Attorney Wayne Wadlington who will be assisted by Assistant County Attorney Hugh F. Mathis and J. F. McKeel.

For two terms Roddie was state senator from this district. He was a personal friend of former governor Charles N. Haskell and the first trial here which resulted in Roddie's conviction for manslaughter attracted statewide interest. Judge C. O. Barton local attorney and father of Percy Barton, has also been an outstanding figure in the legal profession here for many years. He was at one time county judge.

Ada Legion Looking Forward Eagerly To Results of Meeting

The American Legion is looking forward to the result of a meeting of district commanders at Oklahoma City December 11, at which time the discussion of organization of more detailed plan by which co-operation on the part of the Legion can be given in civic matters will be a feature.

Ada and Pontotoc county will be represented by the district commander at Holdenville, who will in turn notify the local post as to results of the meet. Local legion officials state that they are ready to assist the city schools in the national education week program, December 4-10 inclusive.

FORMER CITY OIL MAN MEETS DEATH

Jack Sankey Believed To Have Killed Himself in Ft. Worth Hotel.

(By the Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 30.—Jack Sankey, prominent oil man, formerly of Tulsa, Okla., and Los Angeles, was found dead in his apartments at a local hotel here this morning. Police said he had killed himself by shooting. He was one of the successful operators in the West Texas oil field.

Sankey, who was president of one company and a stockholder in another, had returned to his room on the second floor of the hotel at 9 o'clock this morning. A service car driver, who had brought him to his rooms, notified a friend that Sankey had carried a revolver to his rooms. They rushed to the apartment and broke into the room where they found Sankey on the floor dead. He had been shot through the heart.

Sankey was 43 years of age and he came to Texas in 1918, when the Ranger and Eastland districts were starting their boom. The coroner rendered a verdict of death self-inflicted.

Jack Sankey was well known in Ada where he made his home for about two years. He came here in 1915 as the manager of the oil interests of Skelly & Sankey, and drilled in several gas wells just west of the city. So far as can be determined, he made a record for speed in drilling, as one gas well was completed in less than thirty days.

After Skelly & Sankey had sold their interests in Pontotoc county, they went into Healdton and Texas fields and made fortunes. Associated with them was F. P. Llewellyn, formerly an attorney at this place.

Recently, it is understood, Mr. Sankey operated on his own resources and was considered very successful.

Battery Gets First Practice in Riding; Roff Men Guests

Privates in Battery "F" O. N. G., stationed at Ada, were given their first experience in equitation at the fair grounds stables last night. Captain Robert Kerr, with other officials of the company, were out in mounting, dismounting and riding without a saddle. All visitors were made welcome, and the headquarters battery of Roff, under the command of Capt. W. O. Pratt, was here after an overnight trip.

Those who were at the fair grounds last night said some of the men could ride and others could not. Captain Kerr was pleased with the interest shown in the work-out.

FILIPINOS NOT YET READY FOR RULING SELVES

Maj. Gen. Wood and Forbes
Show in Report Reason For Their Views.

CAN'T BETRAY THEM

Freedom of Islands Shown
As Backward Step
For People.

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The Philippine Islands should remain in their "present general status" until the people there "have had time to absorb and thoroughly master the power already in their hands," former Major General Leonard Wood, now governor general, and W. Cameron Forbes, former governor general, say in their report to President Harding, based on their six months study of conditions in the islands.

"We are convinced," they say, "that it would be a betrayal of the Philippine people, a misfortune to the American people, a distinct step backward in the path of progress and a discreditable neglect to our national duty were we to withdraw from the islands and terminate our relationship there without giving the Filipinos the best chance possible to have an orderly and permanently stable government."

Have Good Qualities.

"We feel that with all of their many excellent qualities, the experience of the past eight years, during which they have had practical autonomy, has not been such as to justify the people of the United States in relinquishing supervision of the government of the Philippine Islands, withdrawing their army and navy and leaving the islands a prey to any powerful nation coveting their rich soil and potential commercial advantages."

These observations of the investigators are contained in the "general conclusions" and "recommendations" made in the report, which was made public today. The complete report, covering two typewritten pages, will be made public later. The "general conclusions" are as follows:

"We find the people happy, peaceful and in the main prosperous and keenly appreciative of the benefits of American rule."

Want U. S. Protection.
"We find everywhere among the Christian Filipinos the desire for independence generally under the protection of the United States. The non-Christians and Americans are for continuance of American control."

"We find a general failure to appreciate the fact that independence under the protection of another nation is not true independence."

"We find that the government is not reasonably free from these underlying causes which result in the destruction of government."

"We find that a reasonable proportion of officials and employees are men of good character and ability and reasonably faithful to the trust imposed upon them; but that the efficiency of the public services has fallen off, and that they are now relatively inefficient due to lack of inspections and to the too rapid transfer of control to officials who have not had the necessary time for proper training."

PLAYERS GAIN BY PRACTICE CLASH IN COLLEGE GYM

A basketball practice game between the Francis high school and the Teachers' college last night proved to be one of considerable profit to both quintets, according to the two coaches. The game was played to give the men instruction in the late changes in basketball rulings, and to give them experience for a stiff season ahead. The score was one-sided, the College piling up a total of 52 points while 13 were made by the visitors.

Coach Thompson, heading the college caging squad, was well pleased with the action of his men. The game started with Jones and Newton at forwards, Little at center and Dorsey and Evans at guards. Some changes were made during the game, which grew disinteresting after the first few minutes when the college took the lead in scoring. Coaches, acting as officials of the game, were given an opportunity to study faults of their men, and to correct them.

Considerable trouble was encountered in teaching players to avoid personal fouls. New rules makes it necessary for players to be careful of hitting opponents with their body. Both squads played well for the experience they have had and prospects for both teams this season are declared to be good. W. K. Newcomb, coaching the Francis quintet, is working for district honors again this season.

"MY LITTLE GIRL HAS GAINED 15 POUNDS," SAYS HAPPY MOTHER

Little Rhode Island Girl Is As Bright and Cheery and
Her Cheeks Are As Rosy
As Ever.

SHE CAN NOW KEEP UP IN HER CLASSES

"Only a Mother Can Understand What I Suffered
When I Saw My Daughter
Slowly Wasting Away," Says Mrs. Mary Smith.

"Every time I look at my little girl's rosy cheeks my heart goes out in praise and gratitude to Tanlac," said Mrs. Mary Smith, of Peacedale, R. I., a suburb of Providence, recently.

"Until Mary was eleven years of age she always enjoyed good health and had a very happy, fun-loving disposition. However, during the past three years she became very thin and frail. She took on a very sallow color, her tongue coated over, she complained of a bad taste in her mouth, dull headaches, and of feeling languid and tired all the time. She lost her sunny disposition and became nervous, irritable and moody. Her appetite got so poor that I had to coax her to eat. Her sleep was fitful, her eyes dull, and her steps so heavy that it seemed she hadn't strength to life her feet from the floor.

"She had always stood high in her studies, but now her reports were so bad that her teacher called on me to find out why she had gone back so in her lessons. When I asked her why she had failed so in her school work she cried and said she studied as hard as ever, but couldn't seem to remember. Only a mother can understand what I suffered when I saw my daughter slowly, but surely, fading away each day. I could hardly keep back the tears when I looked at her.

"Six months ago we took her out of school, thinking this might help her, but she continued to grow worse. We were told she would get better when she got older, but I was afraid she couldn't live and have shed many a tear over her condition. In fact, my husband and myself, both, were downright sick from worry over her, and yet, nothing did her any good.

"One day my husband said, 'Why not have Mary try Tanlac?' Each morning I have read in the papers of someone being helped by it and it may be what she needs."

"Well, I had tried everything else so as a last resort I had Mary try Tanalac and I have felt thankful a thousand times that I did. Before she finished the first bottle she was eating like I have been wanting to see her eat for three years. Now she is the first to the table and the last to leave. She has gained fifteen pounds and is still gaining, and her face is as round and rosy as it ever was. Her eyes sparkle with health, her steps are light, and she is as full of life as a kitten. It does my heart good to hear her running around, singing and laughing and enjoying life and good health again.
My gratitude to Tanlac is unbounded."

Tanalac is sold in Ada by M. A.
Waits and all leading druggists.

BATTERY RECRUITS ARE ASKED TO BE EXAMINED

An order was issued today by officers of the new headquarters company to the effect that all men who have not been examined should report at once to Dr. McKeel in the Shaw building for examination.

The required number of men have been recruited and as soon as the examinations are completed, the officers from the state headquarters will come to Ada to muster the company in, it was said. All who have not been examined will be saving time by reporting at once, the order said.

Oklahoma First Conceived In 1870 As Indian State

(By the Associated Press)

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 30.—
When Oklahoma passed the fourteenth anniversary of her statehood a few days ago, only a small number of persons realized that the first concerted action for statehood began in May of 1870, and was initiated by representatives of 34 Indian tribes who planned to organize an all-Indian state, out of Indian territory. At that time the territory extended from Kansas to Texas, and from Missouri to New Mexico.

Col. Parker, whose first name is not recorded, a full-blood Seneca of New York state, is credited by local historians with originating the idea of making an all-Indian state out of the territory. He was named an adjutant by General Grant at Fort Donaldson and was a close associate of Grant. When Grant became president of the United States he named Parker as commissioner of Indian affairs.

Called Indians to Meet.
Following the appointment of Parker he called a meeting of Indians for May of 1870, to be held at Oklmulgee, the capital of the old Creek Nation, to discuss the question of forming the state. Congress appropriated sufficient funds to pay the delegates $4 a day for attending the meeting and also 10 cents a mile for travelling expenses.
Indians from all parts of the country assembled at Okmulgee and did not adjourn until the following December, without reaching a decision.

Another meeting was called for the following May and at that time the conference was again unable to agree. Thereafter meetings were held almost annually at Okmulgee at the expense of the government but the differences of the tribes could never be reconciled.

The subject dragged until in 1878 when Washington authorities renewed their efforts to put through the enterprise. In May of that year, another meeting was held by the tribes at Okmulgee. It was attended by J. P. C. Shanks, a member of congress from Indiana and a member of the house committee on Indian affairs. Shanks was delegated to attend as the representative of President Grant to make a report to him.

Notables Gather.
This was probably the most notable of all the meetings held but like previous conventions no agreement could be reached. Congressman Shanks was accompanied to Okmulgee by Enoch Hoag, a Quaker and a member of the Indian Commission, stationed at Lawrence Kansas. Other notables present were Pleasant Porter, chief of the Creeks,

Chief Checotah, also of the Creeks,
E. J. Brown, then the only intermarried white citizen of the Seminole nation; Mose Keokuk, son of the Sac and Fox chief after whom Keokuk Iowa, was named; Black Beaver, a noted Delaware Indian and scout, who guided General Macey of the Union Army out of Texas and into Kansas, to escape the Confederates; Toshua, a famous Comanche chief who was conspicuous with his silk plug hat; Capt. F. B. Severs, and Chief G. W. Grayson.

Congressman Shanks reported to President Grant that a strictly Indian state was out of the question because of the wide divergence of opinion among the tribes. The project then was dropped. It was revised in 1905.

The famous Sequoyah convention was called in Muskogee by chiefs of the Five Civilized Tribes to discuss the question of Indian territory and to frame a constitution. It was proposed to call the new state Sequoyah in honor of the noted Cherokee chieftain, but the plan never bore fruit.

ADA MAN BARELY ESCAPES GETTING IN ON SENSATION

L. R. Clark, editor of the Ada Bulletin, has just returned from Wichita, Kansas, where he went on business and pleasure. While in the Kansas city, he almost took part in the capture and killing of the famous outlaw, Eddie Adams.

The Ada citizen was walking along a street when he saw an excited crowd rushing to one corner. On inquiring as to the excitement, he learned that the police had just killed the outlaw and three of the policemen had been injured.

Clark says he has never been so fortunate as to get into a good newspaper story like that in Ada.

WE HAVE COME TO WIND UP THE AFFAIRS OF ONE OF OKLAHOMA'S GREATEST MERCANTILE FIRMS

And only 21 days is allowed us in which to close out every dollar's worth of merchandise owned by this company in the state of Oklahoma. Buildings must be emptied and doors locked and barred by Christmas Eve night, December 24th.

It's far and away the biggest task we have ever undertaken, although we are accustomed to huge tasks. But it must and shall be done in the time specified. We fully realize that our reputation as one of the greatest selling organizations on earth is at stake and that we must put on the most spectacular sale ever held in the middle-west to completely turn all this merchandise into cash in the allotted time. Therefore we have decided to introduce to the people of Oklahoma a sale system that originated in the great-golden gate state of California, namely A GENUINE CALIFORNIA CAFETERIA STYLE HELP-YOURSELF SALE. And here is how it will be done. After tagging every article in this stock and literally cutting the prices to shreds we will then proceed to stack and hang the entire stock out in the middle of the floor on cases, counters, boxes, frames and racks so that you can go right through all this merchandise yourself without being influenced by anybody. After selecting the choicest styles and patterns of everything and ascertaining what a wonderful bargain each item is, our sales people will then find the proper sizes for you, will wrap up your selections and take your money. That is easily understood is it not? Now understand positively that you will be under no obligations to buy after searching through this stock as long as you choose.
We invite and urge the people to look thoroughly through the thousands of articles left in the big stock for we know the prices we have put on merchandise will cause you to empty the building quickly clear down to the naked walls and floor.

Never before have you had the privilege of rummaging through a big stock of merchandise and making your own selections as you will have in this one during the next 21 days if the goods last this long.

AND NOW A WARNING. Come to this sale as early and as often as possible and wade right into these bargains before the styles, sizes and patterns you want are sold. Your neighbors will all be here as the people are going after these tremendous bargains like honey bees after a barrel of new country sorghum. The only thing that is worrying us now is getting enough clerks to take your money and wrap up the goods as fast as you pick them out. Every single item in this big stock will be tagged, giving our red-hot, honest-to-goodness, genuine close-out sale price

How We Satisfy Our Sweet Tooth.

By GARRET SMITH

AMERICA is the world's biggest sugar user. Into her tea, coffee, pastries and other foods and drinks goes over 20 per cent of the sugar produced in the entire world. Out of the 17,000,000 long tons manufactured annually by the world at large we Americans consume 4,000,000 tons. And besides that we export somewhere around a half million tons every year.

And yet we produce within the boundaries of the United States and our territories considerably less than half the sugar we handle here either for our own use or for shipment to other countries. How does it come about that America, which must import about half the sugar used here, is also a large exporter of that commodity? Where do we get the sugar we can't produce ourselves? Where does the world's sugar come from, anyhow?

These are some of the questions that are puzzling the layman who is trying to follow the debate over the proposed sugar tariff just now, in which it is advocated that we adopt the highest rates assessed in over thirty years by making permanent the 60 per cent increase on

sugar enacted in the emergency tariff bill.

In the first place, the United States and its island possessions is a large sugar producer, now ranking third among the nations of the world, although a rather bad third. Cuba "the Sugar Bowl of the World," as she is called, ranks first with an annual output, according to crop estimates of the present year, of about 4,000,000 long tons. British India comes second with 3,000,000 tons and the United States, including her territories, follows with 2,200,000. The only other sugar producer that comes anywhere near the United States in quantity of output is Java with 1,515,000 tons.

The United States is unique as a sugar producer in that we have a large output of both cane and beet sugar, although both together supply only half our consumption. Of the 2,200,000 long tons estimated for this year 1,340,000 is cane sugar and 860,000 beet sugar.

Climate that will produce sugar cane will not produce sugar beets and vice versa. The tropics and subtropics produce cane sugar in abundance but no beet sugar. North and South America, including the islands, together produce about half the world's annual supply of 12,580,000 long tons of cane sugar annually. Asia falls a little under with 5,065,000. Africa produces only 500,000 and Australia 235,000.

Beet sugar which, under Germany's leadership, once tied cane sugar for supremacy in the sugar market, has declined in ratio to the whole until it is less than 25 per cent of the total supply. There are 4,505,000 long tons of it produced annually in the temperate climates of Europe and America. Germany still leads the United States in annual beet sugar production with 1,150,000 long tons. Other considerable producers of beet sugar are Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Austria, France, Belgium, Holland, Russia, Sweden, Denmark, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Bulgaria, Roumania and Canada.

These figures, as we have said, are based on estimates of this year's output and if lived up to will represent an increase of one million and a quarter long tons in the combined annual output of cane and beet sugar.

Now, then, with this vast world supply to draw from, where does the average American get the eighty-five pounds of sugar he eats annually? For that is the per capita consumption of sugar in the United States.

Of the 4,000,000 long tons we consume every year, the Louisiana and Texas cane crop give us only 150,000 tons, the Hawaiian cane 500,000, Virgin Islands cane 8,000, Porto Rican cane 450,000 and Philippine cane 70,000. Then we consume 875,000 long tons of our own beet sugar crop and make 35,000 tons out of foreign molasses, American maple, etc. This covers most of our available domestic supply, or about 1,900,000 long tons. For the rest we buy some 60,000 tons in normal years in scattering lots among the minor sugar raising countries mentioned and the rest, about 2,000,000 tons, comes from Cuba.

It will be seen, therefore, that due to tariff concessions and convenience of shipping, we buy nearly one-half of Cuba's total crop. So it is not for Cuba and a tariff arrangement that makes her sugar available at moderate price, we would have to go without about half our sweetening or pay higher prices for it than now prevail.

Last year, to be sure, was an exceptional one. With the allurements of high prices for sugar about a million tons were shipped in here during the year from countries other than Cuba. This was only a temporary condition, however.

Now with American conditions as outlined above, how does it come about that we have sugar to export?

The answer is simple. Cuba does practically no sugar refining. The United States does a great deal of it. Before the war the American refiners did practically no export business. England, the largest importer of sugar, secured her supplies mainly from the continent, buying both raw and refined sugar from Germany, Austria and other continental countries. In addition, she made extensive purchases in Java. On the declaration of war the continental source of supply was cut off, and to secure sugar from Java became difficult because of the scarcity of ships.

Inasmuch as France's sugar production was chiefly in the war area, her own supply was cut about 75 per cent, so that she also became an importer. This was Cuba's and the American refiners' opportunity.

Cuba built up a large export business in raw sugar to the English and French refiners. In addition, the American refiners have done a large export business in refined sugar. They were enabled to do this by importing foreign raw sugar, chiefly from Cuba. On this, of course, they had to pay a duty, but this duty under our customs laws was refunded to them when the refined product made from these foreign raws was exported. Thus in practice it became practically a "refining in transit" proposition. The raw sugar produced in Cuba is carried on steamers to the Atlantic coast refiners, unloaded, refined and then exported. At times the refined product is exported on the same steamer that brings in the raw material.

There are twenty-two large sugar refineries in the United States, located in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Savannah, New Orleans and San Francisco. New York is the big sugar refining center of the country. This country can refine 1,000,000 tons annually for export purposes without slighting the domestic market, and with this refining capacity it is important that we hold our export trade. This can be done only with the assistance of Cuba, the raw sugar producer. None of our domestic sugar, either raw or refined, is exported, as on account of the tariff it brings a higher price in the domestic market than can be secured abroad.

Altogether we should export between 400,000 and 600,000 long tons of sugar annually to some forty or fifty countries.

The proposed Fordney Tariff Bill will have a far-reaching effect on the status of our sugar supply and on the price which the consumer must pay for his sugar. If enacted in its present form it would make permanent the present Emergency Tariff increase of 60 per cent on Cuban sugar in spite of the fact that the domestic industry prospered under the rates in force before the passage of the Emergency Tariff.

The result, it is confidently predicted, would work great harm to Cuba's sugar industry; impose an unjust burden on the American consumer; destroy in large measure our growing export trade to Cuba; and make impossible the collection of several hundred million dollars due our banks and exporters which cannot be collected unless the Cuban sugar business prospers.

VANDERLIP PLAN IS MADE PUBLIC

Banker, Back from Journey, Suggests Money be Used To Rebuild Europe.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Recognition by the Allies of their eleven billion dollar debt to America as a just debt, agreement by the country to easy payments and the money thus repaid to be used in rehabilitating Europe, was the plan proposed last night by Frank A. Vanderlip, the New York banker, for settling the obligations of the war.

Mr. Vanderlip, who returned recently from Europe, where he made an exhaustive study of economic conditions, spoke before the Economic club. He said he had discussed the debt with the leading responsible government ministers and financiers of Europe and nearly every nation admitted inability to pay.

The United States would be hurt as much by the rapid receipt of payment in the form of goods, the only possible form of payment in view of the demoralization of foreign exchange, he said, as the allied debtors would be harmed in making payment.

"The full consequences would be profound," he said, "if the payments could be made and were made with any degree of promptness. We need not look further than to contemplate merely the receipts of $500,000,000 a year of interest. If that came in the form of goods, our industrial situation would be upset in a way and to an extent we have not heretofore experienced. The effect upon our labor situation and the consequent social problems which would be raised would be menacing.

Allied Debt Just.
As the first postulate in his plan, Mr. Vanderlip said he would lay down the principle that the allied debt was a just debt, legally and morally, and whether it could be paid or not, it should be cheerfully and gratefully acknowledged as a just debt.

"Next, I would want America to be both an intelligent and a lenient creditor," he continued. "Terms of payment ought to be adapted to the means of our debtors. In that respect we should take the action of the allies in fixing terms of the indemnity as an example to be avoided rather than followed."

"The crux of my plan would lie in the disposition of the payments."

"I would have America make a beau-jeste; a grand gesture in international relationships. While demanding that the payment be made I would have America say that she is prepared for the present to forego the receipt of it."

To Rehabilitate Europe.
Concerning what should be done with the money paid back, Mr. Vanderlip said:

"I would like to see every dollar that can ever be paid to us by our debtors for years to come devoted to the rehabilitation of European civilization. It is only through such rehabilitation that these debts can ever conceivably be paid. It is only through the rehabilitation of European civilization that America can ever conceivably realize or can expect a full measure of prosperity for her people."

He believed a plan for the development of eastern Europe could be laid out, he said, comparable to the vision our forefathers had when the latent possibilities of our great west were unfolded to their minds.

"Everything the war has cost," he added, "everything an unwise peace is costing, can be recompensed and beyond that a great economic margin created. If eastern Europe can be put in order, can be helped and led wisely to handle its own problem, if the people of eastern Europe can be made to comprehend their economic unity, if they can be brought to understand that in the welfare of all nations lies the highest prosperity of each."

To a program of this kind he declared, he would devote for many years every dollar this country could get of the allied debt.

OLD AGE, HIS MARK.

Oliver Wendell Holmes, in the charming discourse of "The Professor at the Breakfast Table," refers to an unmistakable sign of old age. It is three parallel lines between the brows. We can detect the first traces of disease by signs just as plain.

When a woman suffers from backache, nervous depression, dragging-down pains, and those ailments peculiar to women, it is plain that she needs a woman's medicine. What other medicine could she more wisely resort to than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for half a century has proved the natural restorative for these troubles?

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

BLAINE COUNTY TO TRY FOR MORE COTTON CROP

(By the Associated Press)
WATONGA, Okla., Nov. 26.—While the rest of the state or the southern part of it at least, is crying for a reduction in cotton acreage, Blaine county, on the north edge of the cotton belt, is trying to increase its acreage, according to J. M. Rapp, county agent, Blaine county, so far, is beyond the territory infested with boll weevil.

84 INDIVIDUALS IN RIVER SUITS

Claims of Ownership of Oil Leases on Arkansas and Cimarron Numerous.

(By the Associated Press)
MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 30.—Eighty-four persons, firms and corporations are defendants in the suit growing out of claims of ownership to oil leases on the Arkansas and Cimarron river beds, which will be set for trial in the United States district court here by Judge Robert L. Williams in January. It is generally believed that Judge Williams will make a special setting of the cases, which will require about a month to hear. There are four attorneys pending.

Ownership of the river beds is claimed by the state, by the government on behalf of the Creek nations and by individual allottees and riparian owners. The cases have been pending since 1909, and there has accumulated in the hands of the receivers of the properties approximately $2,000,000 in oil royalties. The last report on the Cimarron river royalties showed the receiver was holding $1,250,000.

It will be the contention of the state in these cases that both rivers are navigable and as such the beds are the property of Oklahoma. So far the government is not considering the Arkansas navigable beyond its junction with the Grand river at Fort Gibson in this county, but the state supreme court has held the stream is navigable throughout the state.

According to E. O. Matter of this city, special assistant to the attorney general at Washington who will represent the government in the suit, the government will contend that neither stream is navigable. Should this contention be upheld by the federal courts the decision will eliminate the state, it is said. The contested leases in the Cimarron include some of the most valuable oil properties in the Cushing field.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

LET US GIVE THANKS:—Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever.—Revelation 7:12.

THE EXECUTIVE BUBBLE.

At last the magazine reader may feel relieved about the business world.

For a long time all the stories were of Salesmanship. How to Sell, Working Up Prospects and such matters. For a raise or a new job you had to sell yourself. To have the girl marry you, you had to sell her on the proposition, even if later she found herself "Sold."

Swiftly ensued the Executive Period, no magazine was complete without its story of the young man's rise to be Boss. The average reader who merely earned a living was occasionally moved to the passing thought that if everybody became an executive there wouldn't be many people left to exec on, but he read placidly on, nevertheless.

Now we are back to normalcy with a jerk. The American has printed the story of the man who was boss and found it didn't work. Somehow he felt he lacked something, and eventually the Big Boss felt so, too—yet the story has a happy ending.

Along with this terrible disillusion one may notice that women who have gone into business for careers are tending to come back into homes better managed than those from which they come. And the stenog with the frayed fur coat is doing her own sewing.

Our fling at Salesmanship, Executiveship, extravagance and other romantic notions has done no harm. We have learned that back of salesmanship must be honest value in goods. Back of being an Executive there must be training, education, experience, tact and a real gift for leadership. Back of having things must be earning them. Back of careers must be homes run by people to whom home-running is a career.

In other words, value and exchange go hand in hand, privilege and responsibility cannot be separated, and the world is the better for knowing that no magic formula will function without the application of hard work and common sense.

AN EDITOR'S TROUBLES.

After listening to the criticisms of our fire story published last week we are inclined to doubt whether there really was a fire. Which goes to illustrate the fact that the only way to obtain accuracy in a newspaper is to publish nothing you are not an eye and ear witness to, and then only when corroborated in toto by three disinterested parties, all eye and ear witnesses. In this manner everything inaccurate could be kept out of the news columns. Of course there would be no news and everybody would be pleased. Allen Democrat.

Isn't it the truth? Since no two witnesses could be found who saw things alike there would certainly be no story unless the paper followed the example of the Fort Worth Record a few years ago. In this case a despondent member of the newspaper fraternity, who had not lost his sense of dramatic and of news values, walked into the room and announced that here was a good story and blew his brains out. Four reporters were witnesses to the tragedy and just to observe the different impression it made the editor had each man write the story as he saw it and then ran all four. Needless to say there were marked differences in the four recitals, although each man had witnessed the same thing. You might try that plan next time, Forde.

We do not always agree with Senator Borah, but in a recent article he not only hits the nail squarely on the head but also puts President Harding in an awkward position. Borah has from the beginning been an uncompromising foe of the League of Nations plan and did as much as any other senator to kill the Versailles treaty. He very pertinently calls attention to the obvious fact that the "Association of Nations" proposed by the president as a substitute for the League of Nations is only the league under a different name, and then asks why anybody who favors any sort of an organization does not advocate joining the league that is already in operation. This would be easier, he figures, than for forty-three nations already in the league to scrap it and join the United States in organization of another just about like it. It's Harding's move.

Ardmore has barred Clara Smith's picture from the theatres of that city Ardmore saw too much of Clara in real life to care much how she appears in reel life.

Opportunities are like diamonds and gold nuggets which lay in the ground untold centuries until some one came along who knew what they were and picked them up.

TWO SOULS WITH BUT A SINGLE THOUGHT

Your Power.

(Bartlesville Examiner)
Tears come to the eyes of Marshal Foch, and for 16 minutes he forgets that he is at a banquet in Boston, as he talks to a war veteran, blinded in both eyes.

It is an admirable sidelight on the humane character of the greatest Frenchman, who was entrusted with the lives of 10,000,000 soldiers.

The blinded veteran is Lieutenant Guy Envin.

Like Foch, you pity him for his loss of sight.
Yet Envin is studying international law at Harvard, a task that is extremely difficult even to those with perfect sight. It is an inspiring instance of what man can accomplish, despite any handicap, if he keeps his fighting spirit alive.

Ben Welch, the comedian, went blind a year ago. Did he become discouraged—give up the fight? No. In the presence of witnesses, including the mayor of Providence, R. I. Welch burned his insurance disability policy that would have paid him $10,000 in a lump sum or $75 a week for the rest of his life.

Now Welch is traveling about the country, headlining in vaudeville, as in the old days. He even refuses to carry a cane.

A friend, dressed as a policeman, leads him out on the stage. Sitting on a bench, the famous comedian forgets that he is blind, and cheers his audience with a rapid-fire of jests.

Blindness would make most of us down-hearted. But Welch says that it has only made him more anxious to cheer up others.

"Life," says he, "is too short to quit working."

The cases of Ben Welch and Lieutenant Envin should change the whole mental attitude of any man who has become discouraged by obstacles.

The great men of history, became great, almost entirely because of the obstacles they overcame.

The most popular printed stories involve some form of contest—desperate chances, disheartening odds, seemingly insurmountable barriers.

The popularity of such stories proves that, in every person, there is the instinctive desire and the ability to overcome obstacles.

Don't be discouraged. Keep your fighting spirit. You can overcome anything if you so will. Obstacles are placed in your path to develop your powers. They are the gymnasium exercises of life, training you to handle big things.

Women in Education.

(Fort Worth Record)
Texas has advanced five points in education rank among the states of the union—from the thirty-ninth to the thirty-fourth, according to the latest rating. It indicates relative progress, while continuing to call for much more progress.

The large negro population probably has been a factor in influencing the low rating of southern states, according to Bertha Y. Hebb, writing in the American School Board Journal for November on the subject, "Is the Woman Educator as Efficient as the Man Educator?" But Texas, even with a large share of the negroes, stands fourteen states above the foot of the class, and Texas at this time is employing the following women school administrative officers: Thirty-one county superintendents, a woman state superintendent, a second and third assistant state school superintendent, a state director of industrial education and a woman state statistician.

The standing of Texas in 1900 upon the Ayres' scale was 24, according to Miss Hebb, and, according to the latest scale it has advanced under the leadership of women seventeen points, a gain of more than half as many points as those of South Carolina, Mississippi and Arkansas combined, which stand at the foot of the class, and which employ few women administrative officers.

It is noted that Montana, which has been ranked first in education, had a standing of 76 on the Ayres' scale in 1900, so while Texas has made material gain, Montana has made much more. Relative to the three states of lowest standing, Miss Hebb says:

"Turning now to the states which occupy a low standing upon the latest Ayres' scale, South Carolina will be found at the foot of the class with a rating of 29, and immediately above comes Arkansas and Mississippi with a rating of 30 each.

"In these three states combined, so far as can be ascertained only two women hold educational positions of an administrative character. The percentage of women teachers in these states is approximately: South Carolina, 86 percent of the total; Mississippi, 78 percent, and Arkansas and Mississippi with a rating of 30 each.

"In the year 1900, each of these three states had a rating of twenty upon the Ayres' scale, making an educational advance, for the period of almost twenty years of but ten points for the state of South Carolina, and nine for each of the states of Arkansas and Mississippi—the combined educational advancement of the three states, it will be seen, is less than that of any one of the states which stand highest upon the Ayres' scale and in which women educators are in the ascendancy."

BUCKLEY FORCED TO QUIT MEXICO

President of the American Society Has Orders To Cross Border.

LAREDO, Tex., Nov. 29.—William F. Buckley, president of the American Association of Mexico, crossed the border here today, having been expelled from Mexico City.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 29.—William F. Buckley, president of the American Association of Mexico, for whose arrest and expulsion the Mexican government issued an order several weeks ago, left Mexico City Sunday night, proceeding to Laredo under a "safe conduct" furnished by Foreign Secretary Paul. Although technically he has not been expelled under Article 33 of the Mexican constitution, it is understood, it will require "authorization from the Mexican president before he can return," which has the effect of arbitrary expulsion without actual enforcement by officials here.

His journey to Laredo, however, was with the full consent and knowledge of officials in Mexico City following his five-day stay in the American embassy where he took refuge to await developments under the expulsion order.

His case has caused much excitement here, where he was known for years as a business man.

Obituary

MRS. EMMA LEVI, age 60, died Tuesday evening at 7:30 at the home of her daughter, Mrs. W. M. Williams, Seventeenth and Ash, after an illness of several months due to cancer. After a short funeral service this morning at 10 o'clock at Ash avenue residence, Rev. C. C. Morris, pastor, officiating, the body was shipped to Memphis, Tenn., for burial.

Mrs. Levi has been a member of the Baptist church for 47 years and at the time of her death was connected with the First Baptist church of Ada. She has always been a consecrated worker and active Christian. Relatives with her at the time of her death were her daughter Mrs. Louise Thomas, of Memphis, Tenn., soon, Emmett Levi, of Colorado, and daughter, Mrs. Williams of this city.

SCHOOLS DOUBLE INFLUENCE OVER STATE RECENTLY

The increase in population in Oklahoma as shown by the Federal census in 1910 and 1920 was 22.4 per cent, while the increase in the number of children of school age was 30.5 per cent.

In 1910 there were 8,900 teachers in the public schools of Oklahoma. In 1920 there were 15,710 teachers, of which number 2,419 were teaching in high schools. In 1920 there were 2,925 teachers holding first grade certificates and better, and 5,905 holding second and third grade certificates. In 1920 there were 9,960 teachers holding first grade certificates and better and 7,750 holding second and third grade certificates. It will be seen from this statement that while we have almost doubled our teaching force in ten years, all of the gain has been of the better type teachers and that there are actually fewer of the second and third grade class than there were ten years ago.

There are 4,390 one-teacher schools in Oklahoma at this time; 2,217 two-teacher schools, 191 three-teacher schools; 122 four teacher schools and 223 schools having five or more teachers, making a total of 6,148 schools in which no four-year high school is maintained, to which we add 305 more high schools in which a four year course is maintained and fully accredited making a grand total of 6,453 schools.

In 1907 there were approximately 15 accredited high schools. In 1912 there were 29 accredited high schools.

INDIGESTION

Busy Public Official Says Thedford's Black-Draught Helps Him Keep Physically Fit.

Clay City, Ky.—"I have been in business here for twenty-one years; am also coroner, riding the Kentucky hills and hollows in all kinds of weather and under all kinds of conditions," says Mr. Sam T. Carr, of this place. "To be able to do so, I must keep physically fit, and Thedford's Black-Draught is my stand-by."

"These trips used to give me headaches, and that, I found, came from hurried meals or from constipation. I was convinced that Black-Draught was good, so now I use it, and it gives perfect satisfaction. It acts on the liver, relieves indigestion, and certainly is splendid. I am never without it."

When you have a feeling of discomfort after meals, causing a bloating sensation, headache, bad breath, and similar common symptoms, try taking a pinch of Black-Draught after meals—a pinch of the dry powder, washed down with a swallow of water. This has been found to assist the stomach and liver to carry on their normal work, and helps prevent, or relieve, constipation.

Your druggist can supply you with this well-known, purely-vegetable liver medicine. Insist upon Thedford's, the original and only genuine Black-Draught liver medicine. NC-137a

CROWDS PRESS IN TO MURDER TRIAL

Sensation Seekers Look for Much Interest in the Bartlesville Case.

(By the Associated Press)

BARTLESVILLE, Nov. 30.—The final selection of a jury in the Lionel A. Sutter case was completed in district court this morning. Preliminary instructions were read to the jury by the state following which a recess was ordered and court again convened at 11 o'clock. Thirteen witnesses have been subpoenaed for the state and 16 for the defense.

The first witness called for the state was Miss Ladena Cole, principal witness for the state, who took the stand at 11 o'clock. Miss Cole testified that she was 17 years old and that she had known Sutter for a period of about five years prior to his alleged attack.

BARTLESVILLE, Nov. 30.—A district court room in the county court house was packed this morning when work of selecting a jury in the Lionel Sutter case was resumed. Women and children were present long before the court rooms were opened and mingled with the crowd were the usual number of sensation seekers, some coming from far parts of the state.

The work of picking a jury in the case will probably be continued some time this morning. It has been difficult to obtain jurors who have not already formed an opinion in the case due to the wide publicity it has been given, and the selection of jurymen this morning is from a central plan. The taking of evidence in the case will start this afternoon. Sutter is charged with assault with intent to kill in connection with his alleged attack on Miss Ladena Cole, pretty 18 year old high school girl.

The attack took place last spring at the home of a Bartlesville citizen. Miss Cole, it is alleged, was severely cut about the throat with a safety razor blade.

Stories of Great Scouts

By Elmo Scott Watson

© Western Newspaper Union.

CUSTER'S CROW SCOUTS—

There were six of them, these warriors of the Crow or Absaroke nation, who rode with Custer on his last march down the Little Big Horn river in Montana that day in June, 1876. When the leader of the Seventh cavalry asked General Terry for his best Crow scouts in the camp on the Little Rosebud creek, Terry told him he could have Curley, "White Man Runs Him," Hairy Moccasin, "Goes Ahead," Yellow Face and White Swan. The Crows were glad to serve with the famous Indian fighter and they guided him until they located the hostile camp on the Little Big Horn.

When Custer divided his command to attack the village, Yellow Face and White Swan were sent with Major Reno and Custer kept "White Man Runs Him," Curly, "Goes Ahead," and Hairy Moccasin with him. Yellow Face was killed while fighting with Reno, and White Swan was badly wounded, but finally recovered and lived until 1905.

Today Curley is the only survivor of the Custer Crow scouts and, according to his story, he is the last man who saw his commander alive.

After crossing the ridge, Custer turned to "White Man Runs Him," Hairy Moccasin and "Goes Ahead," and said to them: "You have done your duty. You have led me to the enemy. My soldiers will do the fighting. You are to go now and save your lives." The scouts left him and made their way to the pack train under Capt. Tom McDougall.

When Curley returned from Reno's position, he was given the same order. He started and soon found himself in the midst of a hot fight. Finding a dead Sioux warrior, he took his horse, gun and blanket. Wrapping the blanket about his head to conceal his Crow scalplock from the Sioux, Curley succeeded in reaching a high butte. Looking back he saw that Custer had charged down upon the Indians and was surrounded. Curley says that he watched the battle until he saw Custer, who was the last man standing, fall and then he rode away.

The next morning the Crow scout appeared in General Terry's camp. He could not speak English and there was no interpreter. Curley took blades of grass, plied them all in a heap, and then, exclaiming "Pou! Pou!" in imitation of the sound of a gun, scattered them wide apart. By means of this he made the officer understand that Custer and all of his men had been killed. Like the famous Greek, Curley the Crow was a messenger of disaster and he brought the first news of this Thermopylae of America—Custer's last fight.

HARDING CONFERS WITH CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS

MINISTERS BACK C OF C'S ACTION

Local Alliance Voices Its Approval of Reorganization Plans.

"Full and enthusiastic endorsement" of Ada's Chamber of Commerce Reorganization movement, was voted by the Ada Ministerial association at a meeting of the Christian church Tuesday afternoon. The plan for the observance of a Civic Sunday in local churches, on Sunday, Dec. 4, was also approved, and a committee of pastors to prepare a Civic Sunday program, appointed.

This committee was further instructed to co-operate on behalf of the churches with the Ada reorganization movement throughout the entire eight weeks of its educational and program making activities.

The committee appointed consists of Rev. C. C. Morris, Baptist church, chairman, Rev. H. M. Wood, Christian church, and Rev. R. A. Hatch, Episcopal church. This committee will meet this afternoon to discuss plans for Civic Sunday.

Action of the ministers in pledging their warm co-operation to Ada's big civic movement is taken as evidence of the character and wide appeal of the movement, and its announcement was received with deep satisfaction by the large committee of representative citizens who are sponsors of the plan to hitch Ada to its possibilities in every phase of community activity.

Three Ada Persons Buy Sulphur Paper And Are in Charge

Mrs. Marvin Brown, Ed Runion and Joe Hensley, all of Ada, have purchased the Sulphur Democrat and have taken charge. They are planning to move down to the famous Oklahoma watering place before long.

All of these are experienced newspaper people. Mrs. Brown has been connected with publishing houses for several years and knows all parts of the game. Mr. Runion was formerly make-up man on the Ada News, and later purchased the Francis Herald. On selling the Francis paper, he took a rest and has now ventured out again in Sulphur. Mr. Hensley has been a printer on the News force for several years and has lived in Ada all his life.

These three, it is believed, will give Sulphur a live newspaper. It is reported that Hon. John H. Castee, who has been editor of the Sulphur paper for several years, will move to Florida.

JACK O'LANTERN.

"Well, what are you doing?" asked Billie Brownie.

"I'm waiting for Halloween," said Mr. Jack O'Lantern.

"Do you think I am handsome?" he asked after a moment.

"Very handsome," said Billie Brownie.

"I was made by a very fine boy," said Jack O'Lantern. "I thought he would make me handsome. I was pretty sure that he would. I was a little nervous when he was cutting out my nose for fear he'd give me a crooked nose.

"But he didn't; no, he didn't. I have a fine nose, haven't I?"

"Indeed your nose is a thing of beauty," said Billie Brownie.

"And my eyes are nice, eh?" asked Jack O'Lantern.

"There is nothing the matter with your eyes," grinned Billie Brownie.

"Good," said Jack O'Lantern.

"And," he added after a moment, "I have just one more question to ask you."

"By all means, ask it," said Billie Brownie.

"I do hope you feel like admiring my mouth," said Jack O'Lantern. "It is such a nice big mouth."

"It is a nice big mouth," laughed Billie Brownie. "Yes, I think you're a fine fellow, and I love the head piece of a bit of green stalk you wear at the top of your head. It makes you look quite dashing."

"And I'm sure your candle will shine through you beautifully when it is lighted," Billie Brownie added.

"And then I will go calling," said Jack O'Lantern. "What joy that will be!"

"Yes, I will go calling on many people, and I will sit on their doorsteps all by myself with no one to tell me what to do and no one to tell me how to act."

"For I will know how to act. I will smile at the people and that is why I am glad my mouth is big, for if I hadn't a big mouth I mightn't look as though I were smiling. I mightn't look as though I were grinning my best grin."

"I tell you, Billie Brownie, I'm a cheerful fellow. I never say anything that is cross."

"Now the boy who was making me had had such an unkind thing said to him the other day. I am sure the person who said it didn't realize how unkind it was."

"Well, the person said to this boy: 'I remember you in your baby carriage and I used to hold you in my arms when you were just a little bit of a baby.'"

"Now you know, Billie Brownie, no one wants to have that said to them. Of course I don't think the person meant to be unkind but no boy likes to be met and told of how he was carried when he was a baby."

"He doesn't like to talk of the days when he was a baby. And he doesn't like to be told every few moments that he has grown. He knows that without being told!"

"Dear me, some people are thoughtless at times, Billie Brownie."

"But I never make any unkind speeches. Of course I cannot talk. But even if I could talk I wouldn't say anything like that."

"A pale green bug came to call on me today," Jack O'Lantern went on, "and this bug was a fine looking one. He hopped like a grasshopper and he had long feelers. He didn't frighten me in the least, and I didn't turn a hair."

"I don't suppose you could have turned a hair when you have no hairs," laughed Billie Brownie.

"I suppose not," said Jack O'Lantern, "but then, I wouldn't have done so anyway. For I was made by a fine boy and I must act like a fine boy's Jack O'Lantern and mustn't be frightened by anything like that."

"Well, Billie Brownie, I see my master is coming to me now. Night is coming on and I'm going calling. I tell you I am excited. Oh, but I'm just as excited as I can be. I shall enjoy this evening, I know."

"Good-by! He's coming for me now!"

MUD AND RAIN, NOT BLAZE OF GLORY, FORM SETTING FOR NAVY'S TRIUMPH

When Conroy of Navy lunged across Army's goal line for only touch-down of game at the Polo grounds, N. Y. The photo was taken in a downpour of rain. Note the mud-besmeared white jersey and shirt of the officials.

It is a favorite pastime of descriptive writers to remark that the football or any other sport season ended in a blaze of glory. The 1921 football season may have ended that way as far as Navy adherents are concerned, for the middies defeated the soldiers 7 to 0 in their annual game. But to the 45,000 spectators the setting at the Polo grounds was a conglomeration of mud, soggy sod, slime and rain. Even the officials, who started out in white shirts and jerseys, became soaked through from the rain and smeared with mud from handling the ball and contact with the players. Quarterback Conroy won undying fame when he plunged across the Army goal line in the second period. King kicked the goal from touchdown that registered the only other point scored in the game. It was the Navy's third consecutive triumph over the Army.

ANARCHY CRAZES SWEEP PORTUGAL

England Views Tendencies With Some Trepidation; Bombings Cited.

LONDON, Nov. 30.—Bolshevism is spreading through the larger towns of Portugal, the Times declared this morning and there have been many outrages especially in the province of Alentejo.

The recent bombing of the American consulate in Lisbon was an incident of this movement. It is said, and most of the foreign diplomats there have received letters threatening their lives.

As a result, the powers are considering intervention in Portugal and the assumption of mandates there to quell the ugly wave of Bolshevism. According to the Times, France, Italy and Spain favor such a movement.

Dispatches from Portugal to the Associated Press have reported two distinct revolutionary movements in the past six weeks. In the first several members of the Portuguese cabinet, including Premier Granjo, were assassinated following their resignation. A few days later it was reported that Royalists were plotting for the re-establishment of the monarchy. On November 24 dispatches from the Portuguese frontier at Spain reported another revolution brewing. The troops in Lisbon were said to be confined to their barracks in preparation for eventualities.

No advices have been received since that time as to the conditions in Portugal.

INTER-BOROUGH REFUSES TODAY ITS TESTIMONY

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—August Belmont and other directors of the inter-borough Rapid Transit company, invited by the state transit commission to appear and explain financial transactions of 1917-18, refused today to testify by invitation.

James I. Quackenbush, general counsel for the inter-borough company, notified the commission of the director's decision. He said the particular results of the hearing was to encourage hostile attacks on the company by Clarence V. Venner, "notorious speculator in law suits and professional litigations, who masqueraded under the name of the Continental Security company, the General Investment company and other aliases."

George McAneny, commission chairman, immediately ordered the issuance of subpoenas to complete the attendance of the directors.

Subpoenas returnable at 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning were then issued.

DRESSMAKER GIVES ADVICE

"I underwent a surgical operation for gall stones 5 years ago, was in the hospital 4 weeks. For 1 year I felt better, but then my old symptoms and pains returned, and I have suffered ever since. Four weeks ago on the advice of a lady I tried May's Wonderful Remedy, and I now feel like a new woman. I have a number of friends who suffer as I did and I am advising all to try this valuable medicine." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Japan and China To Talk Directly Upon Issue of Shantung

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Arrangements have been made. It was officially announced today, in arms conference circles for direct negotiations between the Japanese and Chinese delegations over Shantung. The negotiations are expected to start immediately in order to give the Japanese and Chinese delegates a free day for their discussions, the conference committee of Pacific and far eastern questions adjourning today until Friday.

The question of Shantung came up in the meeting today in the far eastern committee and it was suggested that the Chinese and Japanese delegations should talk over the subject privately before the other members of the committee took it up. Both the Chinese and Japanese delegations agreed to this and they are to meet tomorrow and report to the full committee on Friday.

EGG TRUST CONTROLS MARKET AT CHICAGO

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—An egg trust formed by three men controls the egg supply of Chicago and makes a profit of $30,000 a day, Russell J. Poole, city food expert, announced today, following an investigation covering two weeks.

Mr. Poole has previously recommended a housewives boycott on eggs to break prices and he stated that he was receiving the co-operation in his work.

San Francisco's foreign exports for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, were valued at $151,089,436.

GORE ONLY PLAIN PRIVATE HE SAYS

Former Senator To Throw Aside Shoulder Straps; Seeks No Office.

(By the Associated Press)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 30.—Announcing himself as merely a "high private" in the state's political ranks, nothing more or less, former Senator T. P. Gore has definitely thrown aside his shoulder straps and joined the ranks of the state's untitled.
"I shall take an interest in politics, but stripped of my shoulder straps. I shall do as a high private. Even though I were ambitious to be governor of Oklahoma I should feel constrained to subordinate my personal ambition to the duty of advancing the principles and improving the prospects of genuine democracy."
In this manner, Gore flatly declared himself out of the democratic race as a candidate for governor in 1922. The paragraph was the conclusion of a statement in the congressional Record for Nov. 22, reaching that journal through the aid of Senator Ashurst, Arizona.
The former senator from Oklahoma announced in Washington that he was leaving for his own state in a day or two, that he would spend several weeks in the state on business and pleasure; that the trip was void of political significance.

"I feel that I ought to make an additional statement in behalf of my friends, who should be making their political alignments for the coming campaign," continues Gore's statement.

"I have received numerous solicitations to enter the contest for governor. I have received friendly assurances from some who have not always favored me.

"I have, of course, the deepest respect for the wishes of my friends, but I cannot accept their conclusion that I should enter the contest for governor. There are several reasons which make it impracticable, I shall not detail them.

Recalls Bitterness.
"Is it only necessary to say that the senatorial contest last year became exceptionally acrimonious. If I should now seek the governorship, it would be regarded by some as a challenge. This would engender strife when harmony within the democratic ranks is essential to triumph of democratic principles.

"I have no disposition to fan the smoldering embers into flame, but rather to quench them. I have no disposition to throw the apple of discord into the councils of the party."

ATLANTA COUPLE POUR OUT THEIR THANKS TO POMEROY'S PURATONE

Popular Railroad Man and His Wife Both Restored To Health—They Declare Puratone To Be "Grandest Medicine On Earth."

"I consider Pomeroy's Puratone the grandest medicine on earth, and my wife thinks the same thing," said Earl O. Dinkins, well known railroad man employed by the Seaboard Air Line, and who resides at 399 Whitehall street, Atlanta.

"Puratone has not only overcome my troubles, but it has made a well woman of my wife, and we both praise this medicine every opportunity we have," he continued.

"I hadn't enjoyed good health for two years. I was bothered with rheumatism and kidney trouble and was badly run down. I had no appetite to speak of and what I ate disagreed with me. I was nervous, had splitting headaches and couldn't sleep well. I had severe pains in my back and sometimes I felt like a knife was sticking in my back. The rheumatism was so bad that sometimes my feet would swell so I couldn't get my shoes on. I had frequent attacks of indigestion and had to quit eating meat and sweets entirely. None of the many medicines I took did me any good.

"Then, I heard about Pomeroy's Puratone and bought a bottle. The results were wonderful. I am now on my fourth bottle and am like a different man. I have a good appetite, can eat anything I want without suffering afterwards and everything tastes good. I eat meats, sweets and just anything. I sleep like a log, the nervousness has been overcome and also the headaches. I haven't that pain in my back any longer and the rheumatism does not bother me at all. I am able to work in all kinds of weather now without any fear. I am much stronger, have gained over ten pounds in weight and am now able to do a big day's work and come home feeling fine. Isn't that wonderful?"

"My wife had been suffering with stomach trouble, indigestion and constipation for four years. She had headaches and frequent dizzy spells. She had to be very carefully of what she ate, for most everything she ate caused gas to form on her stomach. She was forever taking laxatives. She became so nervous at times she was afraid to go out of the house.

"Pomeroy's Puratone did the same thing for my wife that it did for me—made her well and strong again. She has a splendid appetite now, can eat anything she wants without any bad after effects. She is no longer dizzy, nervous or subject to headaches. In fact, all the disagreeable symptoms have been overcome, and she is so much stronger that she is now able to do her own housework.

"There is something remarkable about this medicine. I wouldn't be without it for any amount of money. We intend to always keep a bottle of Puratone in our house. I am giving this statement, so others may know what Puratone will do and can be benefitted like we were."

Puratone is sold in Ada by Gwin & Mays Drug Co. (adv)

CANADIAN EX-SOLDIERS ARE WINNING THE BATTLE OF TURNING WASTE LANDS INTO FRUITFUL FARMS

Good reports of Canada's success in re-establishing her soldiers are being spread far and wide, somewhat to the chagrin of other nations that have failed to make good their promises to the men who risked their all in the cause of world liberty.

Canada put over half a million men into khaki out of a total population of less than eight million people. With the return of the troops to civil life at the close of hostilities, the Canadian government faced the problem of rehabilitating more than 300,000 men.

The first step was to list each returning man and ascertain whether he would be able to step into his pre-war position. For those who had no job in view and evinced no desire to become farmers, assistance in obtaining work was given through well co-ordinated government employment bureaus. Discharged men whose disabilities prevented a return to former occupations, were given the opportunity of re-training, free of charge, in some trade or profession of their choice in which their disabilities would not prove a handicap. But the greatest good was accomplished through the land settlement scheme.

Statistics as of June 30, 1921, show that 26,445 returned soldiers have been settled on the land. Of these, 1,980 were settled on free lands without loans, while 24,465 are on purchased and free lands with loans amounting to $33,844,210. The total area occupied by soldier settlers is 4,554,792 acres, of which about one-half is free land. It is estimated that the soldiers have broken 600,000 acres of new land. So far, 350 have repaid their loans in full.

By assisting the returned soldiers to become farmers, Canada has reaped a two-fold benefit. She has converted part of her ex-army into solid, self-respecting land owners, the sort of citizens that are the mainstay and back bone of any nation, and she has added greatly to her cultivated areas. One has but to compare the waste lands around the soldier settlement at Merville on Vancouver Island, with the fruitful acres brought under cultivation by ex-soldiers, to realize that these men are performing a peace time work as valuable to their country as that of their wartime services.

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP DEFINED AT VERGE OF OPENING CAGING SEASON

The following article is clipped from a popular sport manual and is being republished for the benefit of those who are not educated in the best ethics of sportsmanship. The article has been recommended by the athletic coaches and officials of the city.

"The test of sportsmanship in school and college athletics applies not only to the men on the teams, but also to the spectators in the galleries. It is easy to overlook a breach of ethics on the part of an athlete, yet in the heat of excitement in the heat of a contest, but what plea beyond that of ignorance may be made for the spectator who commits unsportsmanlike acts in the galleries, and ignorance excuses no one.

"The following may be noted as some of the things that are not done in the best amateur athletic circles: First, addressing uncomplimentary remarks to the officials. Usually these remarks, which are seldom heard by the officials in question, are intended as witticisms by the perpetrator. The school which harbors these persons acquires a reputation for cheap sportsmanship, not only among the officials, but also in the minds of other spectators. Second, criticizing the players on either team.

"As a rule these criticisms are made by students who do not know enough about the game which is being played to make a place in the team, yet they feel free to criticize the men who have won by hard work their positions on the team. Usually these criticisms are leveled against the players on the visiting team and are intended to be derisive. A cheap burlesque show invites and expects insulting hand-in-glove on the part of the audience, but a high-class playhouse protects its patrons by ejecting any one who would loudly voice his disapproval of the actors. Some one suggests that top-notch performers are criticized unjustly, but this is not true. Babe Ruth was booed in the recent world's series. Again let it be stated that players are not subjected to abuse at the hands of the students in the best schools and colleges.

Earmarks of Poor Sport.

"Third, whining over a defeat or boasting over a victory. It is too much to expect all of the members of a student body to be able to take defeat gracefully, but some schools and colleges pride themselves on the quality of their sportsmanship when subjected to the severest of all trials; and these institutions place the stamp of disapproval on public 'alibis' on the part of individuals and never try to explain away a defeat. To play the game for the love of the game, to be magnanimous in victory, big-souled and uncomplaining in defeat, that is the part of good sportsmanship, a quality that is to be found in a great many of our schools and colleges today and is lacking in others.

"Let us have improved sportsmanship not only on the courts, but also in the galleries, for therein lies the essence of all that is big and worthwhile in America."

Local basketball coaches have stated that they would greatly appreciate the observance of some of the above statements during the basketball season. They are of the opinion that as a whole the city and school sideline sportsmen are of a high class, but that those who are inclined to not observe the best laws of athletic ethics are here and should be taught the better class of sportsmanship.

As possible may be encountered in seating a jury and opening the hearings, each of which is expected to last a week. Both the state and the defense has subpoenaed a long list of witnesses to give testimony.

Judge Oldfield is well known in state legal circles. He has been associated with local attorneys and judges in many cases and since his election as justice of the peace shortly after statehood has steadily advanced on the judicial ladder, occupying at various times the different steps leading up to a district judgeship.

Business College Team Says It Was Robbed. The members of the Business College basketball team are indignant today as a result of being re-nant today, charging that they were relieved of money, pocketbooks and other valuables while practicing at the high school Tuesday afternoon. They report this morning that the money was taken from their gym practicing, and that the thieves were not known. The boys would be glad to receive information that would lead to the discovery of the person or persons who took the money.
